IN HYMAN'S BONDS.

Miss Rodolph of this city and William Hodges of Stillwater, O. T., married last night.

Last night at 8 o'clock the magic words were pronounced that united Miss Cora Adele Rodolph of this city and Mr. William E. Hodges of Stillwater, O. T., in the holy bonds of wedlock. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. R. H. Humes, St. John's Episcopal church on North Lawrence was the scene of the happy event. The impressive ceremonies of the church were observed by a large number of people, the younger element of the gender sex being largely in the majority.

The church was handsomely decorated for the occasion. The steps that led to the entrance were covered with a carpet and the entire aisle from the outer door to the chancel was covered with white muslin. The chancel floor was also covered with white muslin stretched over the carpet, and the entire arrangements in this line were very appropriate and looked exceedingly nice. The floral decorations were quite elaborate and consisted of hyacinths, snowdrops, ferns, palms, etc. Some very handsome floral emblems could be seen on every hand in the vicinity of the altar.

At 8 o'clock the bridal party arrived and were received by two ushers in full dress, with white gloves and bouquets, who escorted them toward the altar, where they were met by Rev. Mr. R. H. Humes, who wore the white surplice of his sacred office. The bridal party consisted of Miss Ida Rodolph and Miss Pratt of this city and Miss Mable Hodges of Stillwater and Messrs. Roland Rodolph, Harry Hagney, W. H. Tomlin, Mr. and Mrs. Rodolph, and two little girls—Miss Helen Pratt of this city and Gertrude Hunt of Winfield, who followed with two flower baskets. In the journey towards the altar the bride walked arm in arm with her father, Mr. Bliss played the wedding march and played it well, too.

The ceremony was not very long, but for all that it was interesting and impressive. A large party of friends from Winfield and other places were present.

The cost of the wedding was very fine and desirable to be mentioned. The ceremony was held in the future issue of the EAGLE.

ESTABLISHING HEADQUARTERS HERE.

Judge J. C. Lambdin of Caldwell in the city. Mr. Lambdin is a cattle inspector connected with the national bureau of animal industry and his particular business in the city at present is to make preliminary arrangements to move his headquarters here from Caldwell in a few days. He will take the place of Captain Osbell, who has been transferred to Springfield, Mo.

Heretofore Mr. Lambdin's headquarters have been at Caldwell and his territory extended along the border line of counties between Arkansas City and Eaglewood. He will still have charge of that territory but Colonel Albert Dunn of Kansas City who has charge of the department of the west, thought it best for him to make his headquarters in Wichita for the reason that it is the recognized central location of the southwest and for the further reason that he can better keep his eye on stock in transit by being located at this point.

The duties of Judge Lambdin will be to see that every car that passes through his district to the eastern market, which contains stock from beyond the quarantine line, is placarded: "Southern Cattle," and that the bills of lading also contain the words "Southern Cattle." The quarantine line is the state line, and all cattle from beyond that are held, in the contemplation of the rules of the bureau of animal industry, to be "Southern Cattle," and, therefore, very liable to be afflicted with what is known as Texas fever. No cattle from beyond the line can be shipped into the state except for the purpose of conveying them to a suitable market, with the distinct understanding that they are to be slaughtered at once upon arrival at the market.

The object of placarding the cars containing cattle and making a notation on the way bill is of a two-fold nature. The first is to show that they have been admitted to the market for immediate slaughter, and the next is to show at feeding places the character of the stock. If, when cattle of this kind are fed in any stock yards between the shipping point and point of destination, the proprietors or caretakers of any such lot fail to discontinue the pens in which they are fed, he is liable to a fine all the way from $250 to $1,000. An effort is being made to re-establish the quarantine about sixty miles further south in the Panhandle country but it is entirely probable that the first lot will not be successful. The rules of the bureau are suspended from Dec. 1 to Feb. 15, at which time fever does not prevail and cattle can be shipped at the will of the owner without any intermeddling by inspectors.

One good feature of the law is that it will enable the southern tier of the counties of the state to collect taxes from cattlemen who live in these counties which have been practically impossible heretofore. No cattle not in the state on the first day of March in each year is liable to taxation under the law. The custom has been, therefore, for owners of cattle in border counties to drive their stock over into the territory a few days before March 1 and drive them back a few days after and thus evade the Kansas laws relative to taxation. Under the new inspection laws if cattle are driven over the line on March 1, they cannot be brought back under a severe penalty till the following December, except for shipment to market for immediate slaughter. Thus the inspection law spoils the little game of stockmen who raise cattle in border counties without contributing anything to the state. Small farmers have been kicking from time immemorial on this practice and their objections and kicks were well based. They claimed that so long as they were compelled to pay taxes on their cattle the big stock raisers should pay also, and the little ones always protested that they could not raise cattle in competition with men who never had to pay tax on account of their shrewd evasion of the law.

Judge Lambdin will probably have his office in the Government building.

KANSAS WHEAT FLOURISHING.

W. L. Bailey of Wichita, state representative of the Acme Harvester company, was in the city and gave the reflector some pointers on wheat conditions. He says that so far from there being any injury to the wheat plant it has not been in better health anywhere in the state for several years. This year's crop is expected to be a bumper crop and he is sure that it will be a bumper crop.

A wedding party consisting of F. C. Hunt, wife and child, Mrs. George Kummer, C. A. Bower, T. J. Eaton and Nat Tomlin, all of Winfield, came in yesterday morning and spent the day at the Carey. They will return to their homes today.

Several small enterprises in the manufacturing line are starting up in Wichita that employ all the way from two to half a dozen men. Every little helps.

The business transacted at the stock yards yesterday was the biggest Wednesday's business transacted there for some time. About 130 hogs were sold.

Mrs. M. M. Colvin arrived in the city last night from her home at Columbus, Kan., on a visit to her sons in this city, one of whom (Leonard) is quite sick.

Mr. W. M. Paugh has moved his family from Sedgewick City to Wichita, and has leased for his residence the property at 229 North Waco street. Mr. Paugh is with the firm of McCoy & Underwood, and his many friends will be pleased to hear of his making Wichita his permanent home.

INTEREST INCREASING.

The good work at the Central church of Christ is going on. The meeting is little more than a week's continuance has developed a great and growing religious interest. The beginning, based upon the belief that it was possible to awaken a revival interest, has already given way to successful attainments and a strong probability of abundant fruitage to the glory of God in the salvation of souls. Many are deeply interested and earnestly inquiring for "the old path and the good way" that they may "walk therein and find rest to their souls."

If the church membership awakes to the importance of earnest co-operation with their pastor agreeable to their ability so to do, and his wisdom to direct them, almost incomparable results may be expected. The introductory prayer meeting was held by Mr. M. M. Paugh. A large number participated in this service. The reading of select portions of the Holy Scriptures, many prayers and scriptural songs, with exhortations, made this service very precious.

Pastor Sims continued his presentation of the subject of "Justification and Salvation." He first called attention to the fact that all men are sinners and that sinners, for the Scriptures say, "If any man says he is without sin he is a liar." Studying the conditions and means of salvation, faith was presented as fundamental, for it is written, "Without faith it is impossible to please God, for he that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them who diligently seek Him." How, then, is faith procured?

The answer of the Scripture is: "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." The next step in the divine plan of salvation is "confession of faith in Christ." And then another step is taken, which is "repentance." "Except you repent you shall all likewise perish." The penitent will pray, "God be merciful to me a sinner." Saul of Tarsus prayed when he believed in Christ and in his sense of sinfulness repented and was ready and anxious to do the will of God and exclaimed, "Lord what wilt Thou have me to do?" This then is the condition of the true sinner, the will of God and no longer the personal will or the will of any or all men that which must be obeyed. When then the believing multitude was commanded to repent and be baptized for the remission of sins and 3,000 were obedient we have before us in precept and example the plan and condition of salvation in a few days. The Holy Spirit. One person made confession and others were baptized this evening. The indications are most encouraging.

The speaker as he advances manifests the unmistakable qualities of a strong and impressive speaker whose heart is filled with the love of God.

Subject tomorrow evening is "Regeneration."

HOME AGAIN.

Louise Henderson, who has been visiting her mother in Haper county for some weeks returned home yesterday. In speaking of country life in Kansas she said: While the last ten or 15 years of gloomy, damp weather have been no detriment to stock or crops, the extreme contrast from sunshine to clouds elicit comment.

It would be difficult to imagine anything more heaven-inspiring than the morning on the prairies in Southern Kansas during the past winter month—with very few exceptions—nature has been holding a series of receptions that to say the least, for diamond-like brilliancy and sweetly permeated atmosphere would leave Mrs. Mackey and her London "Spreads" in the shade.

The luxuriant growth of the 10,000 varieties of last year's grasses, belacked with crystal beads and dangles of frost at the very dawn of the morning, has been holding a series of receptions that to say the least, for diamond-like brilliancy and sweetly permeated atmosphere would leave Mrs. Mackey and her London "Spreads" in the shade.

WOMAN'S CONVENTION NOTES.

The address of Mrs. Mary Seymour Howell of this city, at the Leroy opera house, last Tuesday evening on the subject of female suffrage, was one of the most eloquent and entertaining ever delivered at a Michigan college, and it is estimated that never last an audience, which filled the hall, been more highly instructed than by this gifted woman, who spoke for an hour and a half with an eloquence and force of logic that changed the sentiment of her listeners for one of prejudice and antagonism to one of admiration and conviction.—Albany Evening Journal.

One of the most interesting and effective speakers at this camp-meeting is Rev. Anne H. Shaw of Boston. Miss Shaw is a member of a Michigan college, and is a student of the University of Chicago. She is a lady of generous culture, refined manners and good education, she draws large audiences wherever she speaks. Her persistent energy and labor, reaching through the whole week, have been a great surprise to all. A HANDSOME STALL.

Sheriff Ike Ault paced about the court house yesterday as proud as a peacock and stepping as high as a jolly tar on land. Naturally Ike is not a proud man but there are times in a man's life when the modest will put on an extra touch of dignity. The cause of his changed condition yesterday was the presentation to him of a magnificent sheriff's badge or star by Father Tihen of the Cathedral. It is a fine star, too, and well becomes the well developed and manly breast of the sheriff of the great county of Sedgewick. It is made of 14-carat gold and hangs from a gold bar by two tiny gold chains. The bar contains Mr. Ault's name in bold letters, while the star contains the name of the office which he holds and the source from whence it came to him. The center of the star contains the seal of the state of Kansas, which represents some nice workmanship.

It will be remembered that a Catholic fair was held last fall in this city, and that that fair's sole purpose was to raise money for the purchase of a new sheriff's badge for Sheriff Ault. The fair was a success and the money was raised.

The last night of the fair the voting ward warm, and Mr. Ault's friends out-voted the friends of the other candidates and won for him the prize, which was the star. Ike had forgotten all about the voting at the fair until Father Tihen presented him with the star with a few appropriate remarks.
